Co-Op Receivers Report

Receivers appointed to wind up the tobacco pool have reduced the expenses of operation from $30,454 to $10,227 in six months. This consideration is contained in supplemental issue of the Tri-State Tobacco Growers' Association, which has been published and designed to inform the members of the pool just what is being done.

In a signed statement the receivers announce that a working agreement has been reached with the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Baltimore under which "sound merchandising policies" can be carried on without the dumping of tobacco on the market.

Announcement also is made that the suit against Messrs. Patterson, Watkins and Edmondson pending in the Richmond court "will be prosecuted diligently and earnestly," this being taken to mean that the receivers share the belief of the plaintiffs in the action that illegal profits were realized by the defendants.

Abandonment of the plan of reorganizing the pool is also announced in a signed statement by Charles F. Cates who sponsored the new movement in Danville last May. He says that the time is not ripe to reorganize with the pool as it is existing among the farmers at the present time. He is convinced the policy is sound and that next spring will see a new organization.

Members are told that their certificates of participation have an undetermined value at the present time. They are also informed that they must meet their notes due in the Credit Bank as the certificates are simply collateral for the note and the farmer is held liable for the full amount of his obligation. Only after the affairs of the pool have been wound up can the members learn what their certificates are worth.

The statement is also made that if the assets of the association are insufficient to pay all creditors there will be no individual liability on the part of the grower members.

The situation facing the five warehouse corporations organized to handle the farmer's tobacco under the pool regime is dealt with at length in a signed statement by W. T. Joyner.

Independent receivers have been appointed for these corporations which are reported as anxious to settle on an individual basis and not linked with the pool itself.

Joyner in his statement says: "The ultimate interest in the warehouses is in the association members. They have had no independent sources of revenue. The association agreed to retire preferred stock in payment for warehouse and agreed to advance money to retire bonds."

Germ Attacks Fish
College Park, Mo.—Cystidiasagellitis—baiting a fish in a tank with its name—is the germ which is carrying the shores of the lower Chesapeake with hundreds of thousands of dead fish, says H. B. Zott, aquarist at Maryland university. Farmers are carrying the fish to their fields for fertilizer.

FAIR NEWS
Edited by L. CRAWLEY

Tons and tons of hogs will be shown at this year's Appomattox County Fair.

Special efforts are being made to interest every farmer in this locality in entering one or more animals in the show. To stimulate interest in the show, liberal classifications have been worked out, and the breeds recognized in the premium list include Berkshires, Poland Chins, Duroc Jerseys, and Chester Whites.

Cash prizes and ribbons will be awarded to the owners of winning animals. Premiums totaling $75.00 have been set aside by the management. Chairman Smith, of the committee in charge of the show, is trying to interest every breeder in this section to enter his best animals. He is making plans for an extraordinary show.

Show hogs must be clean to get much consideration from the judges this year. Warm water and tar soap, applied with a scrubbing brush to free the skin from scales and dirt, will win many a blue ribbon this year. Dry brush rubbed vigorously over the entire body is advocated to stimulate the flow of oil and make the skin smooth and pliable.

White pigs are often rubbed down with sweet oil and vaseline to soften up the skin. Black pigs are not only rubbed down in the same way but often given liberal massages with lampblack to add a shiny blackness and lustre to the hair. However, care must be taken in "doling" up a hog, for most judges are opposed to the liberal use of "cosmetics" preparing an animal for the ring.

Blue bloods of the bovine world, representing the popular breeds of dairy cattle and valued at thousands of dollars, will be paraded before the public in the big livestock show to be staged at the coming Appomattox County Fair.

The wonderful progress which has been made in improving the herds of this locality by use of pure-bred sires will be brought home forcibly by the show. It will be a splendid testimonial to that group of far-seeing individuals who put a pure-bred bull on "Every Farm" several years ago.

The fair management to show its appreciation of the results obtained, and to further stimulate interest in dairy cattle breeding, is offering premiums totaling $110.00. In addition, beautifully inscribed ribbons will be presented to the owners of winning animals. The breeds of dairy cattle that have been recognized in the premium list are Holsteins, Jerseys and Guernseys.

"The value of pure-bred sires is no longer questioned by farmers," says Smith, chairman of the committee in charge of the cattle show. "The greater profit to be derived from a pure-bred or high-grade herd in form of increased cream checks are so obvious, that there is no longer any room for argument."

"It has been proved time and again that the use of pure-bred bull at the head of a herd of common cows will convert it into a profitable high-grade herd in two or three generations. The half blood daughters of a herd of common cows and a pure-bred bull will yield 50 per cent more butterfat than their mothers. The granddaughters will produce twice as much butterfat as their grandmothers. These being facts, it can be seen that the question of pure-bred sires has been reduced to one of simple arithmetic."

The use of pure-bred sires has doubled milk production in the country the past few years, say officials in charge of the dairy cattle show to be staged at County Fair.

Better Tobacco Prices

Local tobaccoists back from the South Carolina markets today declared conditions there augured high prices in the Eastern North Carolina belt next month. Prices 40 per cent higher than at the 1925 opening meant a considerably better level on the Eastern Carolina auction floors three weeks from now, warehousemen, buyers and others who observe the sales declared.

One or two Kinston experts said the South Carolina crop was of inferior quality. Weather conditions were unfavorable during much of the growing season. The weed is of fair texture and color in some localities, while in others it is below last year's standard.

With a short crop in this belt and much of the production of fair quality, despite a poor start, bright leaf prices are bound to rule higher than last fall, it is believed. The foreign demand for cigarette makings is expected to be heavier than in 1925, while domestic buyers have been in the market in a big way in Georgia and South Carolina.

STONEWALL
This section was blessed by a nice rain Sunday afternoon. The electrical storm was very severe near Stapleton and James River. Lightning struck C. Meggin's (colored) house, corner of the pantry, and his wife, who was in the room, burning a strip of her clothes and tearing one shoe to pieces. She was badly burned but Dr. Ould thinks she will recover.

Miss Mary Connor, of Lynchburg, is the guest of Mrs. Dunkley Genter.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Anderson, and daughters, Mary and Jean, and Miss Elizabeth Rice left Tuesday a. m. by motor for Natural Bridge, Endless Caverns and Washington.

Rev. Lavender is conducting revival services at Bethel church this week. Services 6 to 8 p. m. Rev. Burford is assisting Rev. Lavender.

Miss Alice Street, of Amherst County, spent last week with Miss Verna Harding.

Mrs. C. J. Harding spent last week-end in Norfolk and Ocean View.

Mr. W. S. Taylor visited relatives in Richmond last week-end. Mrs. T. A. Drinkard delightfully entertained the Stoneyale Missionary Society of Hebron church Thursday p. m. A large number, both members and visitors were present and a very good program was given. Subject: "Cuba and Canal Zone." An interesting piece was read on titling and members pledged to be tithers, making a total of eight members tithing.

Mrs. J. T. Whitman visited in Amherst county this week.

Revs. Lavender and Burford were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Alvis Tuesday.
